

Action Counters Terrorism 2018 Campaign Toolkit

Communities Defeat Terrorism: reporting suspicious activity & behaviour

Overview

Thank you for supporting the 2018 ACT (Action Counters Terrorism) public awareness campaign, which will launch on Tuesday 20 March and run for four weeks.

Communities defeat terrorism and with the enduring terrorist threat, it is now more important than ever that everyone plays their part in tackling terrorism. Individual actions could save lives.

That's why the ACT campaign is encouraging the public to help the police tackle terrorism and save lives by reporting suspicious behaviour and activity at www.gov.uk/ACT. We will be raising awareness of the different attack planning methods that terrorists might use so the public knows some of the signs to spot and how to report any concerns.

This campaign toolkit will provide you with the background and resources you need to support the campaign.

You can download all of the campaign resources via WeTransfer.

Please note that all of this material is under embargo and should not be used publicly until 00:01 Tuesday 20 March 2018.

How you can help:

- Adapt our news story template for your website about why you're supporting ACT and share examples of signs to spot and how to report (p5)
- Share ACT posters and graphics in your organisation's building, display screens and public areas (p11)
- Share our digital assets and creative film on your organisation's social media accounts (p5)
- Provide a supportive statement from your organisation for the ACT campaign (p2)
- Use external newsletters, your website, blogs and other channels to signpost the public to advice on how to report suspicious activity or behaviour that could be terrorist related via www.gov.uk/ACT (p5 & p11)
- Use staff newsletters and your intranet to signpost internal staff to advice on how to report suspicious activity or behaviour that could be terrorist related via www.gov.uk/ACT (p9)

If you have any comments or questions, or require access to the content in a different format please contact us on nctphq.comms@met.police.uk

About Counter Terrorism Policing

Counter Terrorism Policing is a collaboration of UK police forces working alongside the UK intelligence agencies to protect the public and our national infrastructure. Our officers and staff are at the frontline of the UK's fight against terrorism, working tirelessly to prevent, disrupt and investigate extremists, whatever their ideology.

ACT Background

In March 2017, National Counter Terrorism Policing launched ACT (Action Counters Terrorism), a new branding platform which incorporates all of our counter-terrorism external campaigns to warn, inform and reassure the public.

Make Nothing Happen was the first national advertising campaign to be launched under ACT. Its objective of encouraging the public to trust their instincts to report anything they see or hear which may be terrorist related, was underpinned by the message that cooperation between the public and the police remains the greatest advantage in tackling the challenges the UK faces from terrorism. The campaign ran across radio and digital channels over six weeks (of paid for activity) backed by a national and regional media and PR plan.

Since the launch of Make Nothing Happen in March 2017, there have been five terrorist attacks in the UK resulting in a change of rhythm and tempo in police investigations. As a result, there is now less need to remind people of the terrorist threat. Instead we must continue to find ways of educating the public about the different methods of attack planning beyond 'the suspicious package' while encouraging them to be part of the Counter Terrorism effort to help us stop attacks happening in the first place.

2018 ACT Campaign Objectives

The campaign's objectives are:

- Encourage the public to report suspicious activity or behaviour and increase intelligence from communities.
- Increase public understanding of what activity or behaviour to look out for by highlighting examples of terrorist attack planning methods.
- Increase awareness of key reporting channels like gov.uk/ACT.
- Reinforce the message that communities defeat terrorism – and the key role the public have to play in helping tackle the terrorist threat.

Target Audiences

The main audiences the campaign will target are:

Audience Insight

In January 2018, an online study, with over 1,000 UK adults across the country. The pre-campaign research found:

- Anxiety over terrorism in the UK is high (83%) with a third of the public saying they are very concerned. Two-thirds say they have become more concerned over the past year, which has been fuelled by the frequency and unpredictability of attacks.
- 3 in 4 feel the police are doing well in keeping the public safe, believing that much work goes on behind the scenes to thwart potential attacks.
- The vast majority would report suspicious behaviours with being 'safe rather than sorry' as a key motivator.
- The motivation to report suspicious behaviour is high at 82%, with the potential to save lives being a strong driver.
- A very small number of people would not report and their main barriers included fear of getting someone into trouble if incorrect, distrust of the police and fear of wasting police time.
- Extreme behaviours such as an interest/use of in firearms or chemicals are easier for people to label as a high threat, but they are less certain about the behaviours that are more everyday/potentially ambiguous.
- Online search is the first port of call to find out more information or advice on reporting suspicious activity.
- More than 1 in 10 are aware of ACT which is good considering that it is a very new brand. However awareness is lower than other reporting methods, so raising awareness will be a key function of this campaign.
- The reporting methods that are seen as easy to use are favoured, but this preference is subjective (i.e. preferring to speak over the phone) and subject to interpretation (i.e. some people saw reporting suspicious behaviour as an emergency (and there requiring a 999 response) whereas others did not).

Key Messages

- Communities defeat terrorism.
- Like other criminals, terrorists need to plan. If you see or hear something unusual or suspicious trust your instincts and ACT by reporting it in confidence at gov.uk/ACT.
- Any piece of information could be important, it is better to be safe and report. You can help the police prevent terrorism and save lives.
- You are not wasting our time, and we will only take action after the appropriate checks have been carried out.

2018 ACT Campaign Narrative

Communities defeat terrorism. With the enduring terrorist threat, it is now more important than ever that everyone plays their part in tackling terrorism. Your actions could save lives.

That's why Action Counters Terrorism (ACT) is encouraging communities across the country to help the police tackle terrorism and save lives by reporting suspicious behaviour and activity.

Like other criminals, terrorists need to plan. If you see or hear something unusual or suspicious trust your instincts and ACT by reporting it in confidence at gov.uk/ACT or, in an emergency, dial 999.

Some examples of suspicious activity or behaviour could potentially include:

- Hiring large vehicles or similar for no obvious reasons
- Buying or storing a large amount of chemicals, fertilisers or gas cylinders for no obvious reasons
- Taking notes or photos of security arrangements, or inspecting CCTV cameras in an unusual way
- Looking at extremist material, including on the so-called Dark Web, or sharing and creating content that promotes or glorifies terrorism.
- Someone receiving deliveries for unusual items bought online.
- Embracing or actively promoting hateful ideas or an extremist ideology.
- Possessing firearms or other weapons or showing an interest in obtaining them
- Holding passports or other documents in different names, for no obvious reasons
- Anyone who goes away travelling for long periods of time but is vague about where
- Someone carrying out suspicious or unusual bank transactions

You are not wasting our time, and no call or click will be ignored. What you tell us is treated in the strictest confidence and is thoroughly researched by experienced officers before, and if, any police action is taken.

Any piece of information could be important, it is better to be safe and report. Remember, trust your instincts and ACT. Action Counters Terrorism.

Campaign Strategy

Counter Terrorism Policing will launch the 2018 ACT campaign on 20 March 2018. This campaign will run over a four week period and will deliver an integrated communication approach to maximise message reach including:

- Paid for digital advertising: a paid for online video campaign to maximise exposure and reach (targeted at specific areas informed by operational policing) will run for four weeks. This will include a new creative film to educate the public on different attack planning methods to look out for and explain how reporting suspicious behaviour and activity can help the police tackle terrorism and keep communities safe.
- Owned and earned channels: share engaging content with clear call to action via: the Counter Terrorism network and police forces' channels and stakeholder networks; Government and GCS local channels and stakeholder networks; and mainstream, regional, specialist and online media.
- Media: A full media plan and resources can be found on page 10 and includes national, regional and local activity supplemented by editorial engagement with national, BME, consumer and regional press and broadcasters.
- Digital and social media: campaign activity across owned, borrowed and paid for channels, police force/Government/local authority and other key stakeholder websites, social media accounts and video broadcasting channels.

We will be seeking your help in sharing the messaging across your own channels and networks to help us maximise our reach.

Evaluation

To evaluate the impact of the campaign, we will be measuring a range of factors to understand which tactics and channels most effectively raised awareness of the ACT campaign and encouraged the public to report suspicious behaviour and activity.

Our primary measurement will be the number of calls and online reports we receive from the police and the proportion of those that become actionable intelligence.

However, we ask that once the campaign concludes, if partners could share the following information to help us evaluate the campaign:

- Social media engagement on your native posts about ACT (i.e. Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, etc)
- If you signposted ACT on your external website
- If you signposted ACT on your intranet
- If you signposted ACT in your newsletters/external communications
- If you signposted ACT via posters or display screens in your building
- Any media coverage you secured on ACT

We would be grateful if you could share any of the above examples with the campaigns team on nctphq.comms@met.pnn.police.uk.

Digital Resources

We will be using all of our social media channels to promote the creative film, share informational graphics and direct the public to www.gov.uk/ACT which provides a one stop shop for the online reporting tool, advice, campaign materials and links to supportive information.

How can you support online?

- We have provided graphics, still images, a film and suggested social media posts that you can share across your social media channels.
- We have provided a template news story that you can publish on your website, educating the public on where to report and what to look out for.
- We have provided suggested website wording for your organisation's pages on counter terrorism for you to review and update.

The campaign's hashtag is #ActionCountersTerrorism

Week Two (26th March to 1st April): Communities defeat terrorism – messaging tailored to bespoke audience including women, LGBT & BAME community and faith groups.

Week Three (2nd to 8th April): Online extremism - targeting UK adult population and sector-specific media to highlight the significance of reporting extremist content online.

Week Four (9th to 18th April): Business and Industry – focusing on the commercial sector and trade publications to demonstrate the collaboration between police and industry as they work to protect communities and infrastructure from terrorism.

Press Notice

Included below is the national press release that has been shared under embargo until 00:01 Tuesday 20 March 2018. This can be tailored by regional police forces for local media.

The new head of UK Counter Terrorism Policing has used the launch of a campaign about terrorist attack planning methods to reveal that more than a fifth of reports from the public produce intelligence which is helpful to police.

The recently appointed Assistant Commissioner of Specialist Operations (ACSO), Neil Basu, praised the public's willingness to ACT in response to last year's unprecedented rise in terrorist activity, which resulted in record numbers of people contacting the police through online referral forms and the confidential hotline to report suspicious behaviour and activity.

Now he is launching the second phase of the 'ACT—Action Counters Terrorism' campaign, featuring a new 60-second film based on real life foiled plots, which will show examples of terrorist-related suspicious activity and behavior, as well as attack planning methodology.

A call to action will encourage the public to report suspicious behaviour and activity via the online tool (gov.uk/ACT), helping the police to prevent terrorism and save lives.

"We have been saying for some time now that communities defeat terrorism, and these figures demonstrate just how important members of the public are in the fight to keep our country safe," says ACSO Neil Basu.

"Since the beginning of 2017 we have foiled 10 Islamist and four right wing terror plots, and there is no doubt in my mind that would have been impossible to do without relevant information from the public."

Of the nearly 31000 public reports to Counter Terrorism (CT) Policing during 2017, more than 6600 (21.2%) resulted in useful intelligence - information which is used by UK officers to inform live investigations or help build an intelligence picture of an individual or group.

Research carried out by CT Policing suggests that while more than 80% of people are motivated to report suspicious activity or behaviour, many are unclear exactly what they should be looking for.

The second phase of the 'ACT –Action Counters Terrorism' from CT Policing aims to educate the public about terrorist attack planning and reinforce the message that any piece of information, no matter how small, could make the difference between a lethal attack or a successful disruption.

“Like other criminals, terrorists need to plan and that creates opportunities for police and the security services to discover and stop these attacks before they happen” says ACSO Basu.

“But we need your help to exploit these opportunities, so if you see or hear something unusual or suspicious trust your instincts and ACT by reporting it in confidence by phone or online.

“That could be someone buying or storing chemicals, fertilisers or gas cylinders for no obvious reasons, or receiving deliveries for unusual items, it could be someone embracing extremist ideology, or searching for such material online.

“This new film has been made to try and help people understand recent terrorist attack-planning methods, but also to demonstrate that each report from the public can be one vital piece of a much larger picture.

“The important thing for people to remember is that no report is a waste of our time, trust your instincts and tell us if something doesn't feel right.”

ACT Background

In March 2017, National Counter Terrorism Policing launched ACT (Action Counters Terrorism), a new branding platform which incorporates all of our counter-terrorism external campaigns to warn, inform and reassure the public.

Make Nothing Happen was the first national advertising campaign to be launched under ACT. Its objective of encouraging the public to trust their instincts to report anything they see or hear which may be terrorist related, was underpinned by the message that cooperation between the public and the police remains the greatest advantage in tackling the challenges the UK faces from terrorism. The campaign ran across radio and digital channels over six weeks (of paid for activity) backed by a national and regional media and PR plan.

Case Studies

North West

- A member of the public reported their concerns online about the content of a publicly accessible Google+ social media account in the name of Abdur-Rahman Salford, which contained lots of material linked to the terrorist organisation Islamic State and material believed to encourage others to commit, prepare or instigate acts of terrorism . The operator of the account, Adam Wyatt, was arrested and has since pleaded guilty.
- Threatening and offensive messages on a Facebook group were seen by a member of the public who alerted the police. As a result of the reporting, far right supporter Ethan Stables was arrested for threatening to kill people attending a local LGBTQ event in Cumbria.

West Midlands

- A member of the public reported a man acting suspiciously near to a school in Birmingham. Upon arrest by officers at the scene, the man was found to be in possession of a large kitchen knife and a crowbar. A search of the man revealed hostile reconnaissance material (hand drawn map), a recipe for explosives and messages on his phone from contacts linked to the proscribed organisation known as ISIL. A search of his address revealed further attack planning materials such as adapted electrical lights, bottles of hydrogen peroxide, wires and dismantled mobile telephones. He was found guilty under section 5 Terrorism Act 2006 on 22nd June 2016 and then sentenced on 9th October 2017 for 15 years in Prison.
